"Where wert thou, soul, ere yet my body born,
Became thy dwelling place? Didst thou on earth
Or in the clouds await this body's birth;
Or by what chance upon that winter's morn,
Didst thou this body find, a babe forlorn?
Didst thou in sorrow enter, or in mirth?
Or for a jest, perchance, to try its worth
Thou tookest flesh, never from it to be torn."
—(Waddington.)

8 P.M.—The Perfect Science of Demonstrating Anything You Want.

Nature always works for the consciousness directed towards it. Truth is given us in our Awareness of the world, for as we see it, so it really is for us. There are higher experiences than this. But if they are to be had, the whole subjective being and its material body must be so actually transformed as to enable such experiences to be had. In other words, we must experience Reality, whatever be its aspect, and not merely discuss it.
